

PERSPECTIVE TRANSATLANTIC

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The investment objective of the Fund is to outperform the Solactive GBS CW DM US & Eurozone EUR Index NTR (SCWUEZEN) (the "Benchmark Index") over a long-term horizon by exploiting investment opportunities on the equity markets, while providing a fixed stream of distributions. The Index is a broad liquid equity index (approximately 800 stocks) based on a custom weighting (50% US and 50% Eurozone). The Fund is actively managed, the equity exposure may significantly deviate from the Index. The fund is article 8 of SFDR. Equities of the Portfolio will be selected (proprietary methodology) by the Management Company, relying on both financial and best-in-universe extra-financial analyses that rank the instruments of the Investment Universe based on a combination of ESG (Environmental, Social, Governance) criteria, as well as an assessment of a low adverse impact on Biodiversity relatively to their industry peers. Equities of the Investment Universe will be ranked using MSCI ESG rating methodology which identifies ESG material risks and opportunities for each industry through a quantitative model that looks at ranges and average values for each industry for externalized impacts such as carbon intensity, water intensity, and injury rates. Equities with the highest ESG rating will be retained by excluding at least 20% of the equities comprising the Investment Universe with the lowest ESG rating. More than 90% of the equities composing the Portfolio do benefit from an ESG rating. The Portfolio will be rebalanced monthly respecting the methodology. The exposure of the Fund to European equity markets through the Portfolio may vary between 0% and 150% on a weekly basis at least. As a result, the exposure may drift between such adjustments. The Fund distributes a fixed dividend of EUR 5 per fund unit per year, divided into 12 identical monthly payments.

MONTHLY COMMENT

November was marked by contrasting economic dynamics between the United States and the eurozone, leading to a recalibration of monetary policy expectations, as well as notable market volatility.

In the United States, the government shutdown ended on November 12th thanks to a temporary funding agreement. The gradual resumption of economic data releases reveals a mixed picture: consumption is slowing, with September retail sales slightly down compared to the previous month once adjusted for inflation. Additionally, consumer confidence has declined, with the Conference Board index falling from 94.6 to 88.7. On the labor market side, delayed data still show some resilience, with job creation stronger than expected (119,000 in September versus 51,000 anticipated), but with a slight increase in the unemployment rate. Consequently, monetary policy expectations were recalibrated in November: the probability of a Fed rate cut in December is now estimated at 80%, compared to 40% previously.

In the eurozone, economic activity demonstrated resilience, as shown by the November PMI indices remaining in expansion territory, with a composite index at 52.4. This dynamic is mainly driven by the services sector, particularly sensitive to domestic consumption and rising real wages, while the manufacturing sector remains in contraction. France shows a gradual recovery, Spain and Italy are accelerating notably, whereas Germany experiences a more subdued activity. On the inflation front, the average in the eurozone remains slightly above 2%, but with some disparity between countries. Given this economic resilience and inflation close to its target, the European Central Bank is expected to maintain its key interest rate at 2% during the December 18 meeting.

On equity markets, November saw a significant mid-month correction, mainly in stocks related to artificial intelligence, followed by a recovery at the end of the month. The increased volatility reflected uncertainties about the Fed's decision and long-term concerns about the AI sector's prospects. Thus, the S&P 500 rose modestly by 0.39%, while the Nasdaq fell by 1.17%. In Europe, the Euro Stoxx 50 gained 0.40%, the CAC 40 slightly declined by 0.42%, and the DAX decreased by 1.17%. The Ibex stood out with a 2.07% increase.
